

The merger between XM Satellite Radio Holdings, Inc. and Sirius Satellite Radio, Inc. should definitely happen! I've been waiting for six years for the opportunity to get content from both radio stations without having to buy two separate programs. There are so many choices out there (terrestrial radio, MP3 players, and even Internet streaming radio), but getting both Sirius and XM together would be such a benefit because I would only have to pay one price for both!

Besides, the companies plan on keeping the prices low by having a la carte offerings. Obviously they both have the consumer in mind because they are developing many levels of offerings so that we have more choice with Sirius and XM together than apart.

Please approve the merger! I want to get more channels!
